600 University Street, Suite 1601, Seattle, WA, 98101-3109

Kevin offers experience in legal and factual research, motions practice, document review, managing discovery requests, trial preparation, and all aspects of case management.

While attending the University of Washington, he discovered an interest in energy production and natural resource management. His capstone project focused on the effective use of science to influence community environmental restoration projects.

Kevin is eager to learn new skills that will further enhance the assistance he can provide to Beveridge & Diamond and our clients.
