Vetone focuses her practice on complex commercial litigation, with a background in sustainability.

Prior to joining Beveridge & Diamond, Vetone was a litigation associate at a law firm in New York City, where she served as second chair in an arbitration involving claims for breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duties, and fraud in the inducement and successfully secured an award for $23.6 million for the clients, a public company and one of its subsidiaries.

Vetone attended Georgetown University Law Center, where she served as Articles Editor of the Georgetown Law Technology Review. As a student with the Georgetown University Law Center Appellate Litigation Clinic, Vetone also worked on a case heard by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit. While in law school, she interned at the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan for the Honorable Terrence G. Berg and externed at the Department of Justice in the Environment and Natural Resources Division. Vetone also volunteered with the Sugar Law Center in Detroit as part of an alternative spring break trip.

Before law school, she taught Algebra in Detroit, Michigan as a 2013 Teach for America Corps Member.
